Who Is Triad?

Triad Design Service is a Technical Publications service company that has provided technical documentation for the military, aerospace, and technology industries since 1968.

A strong engineering background was our foundation when we opened our doors in 1968. At that time, we provided engineering support for local businesses such as IBM and General Electric.

Today, Triad has grown into an industry leader offering a comprehensive spectrum of individual and interrelated support services to government and business.
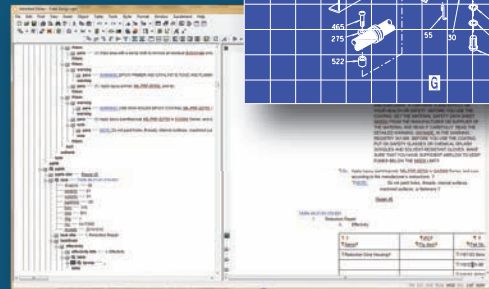

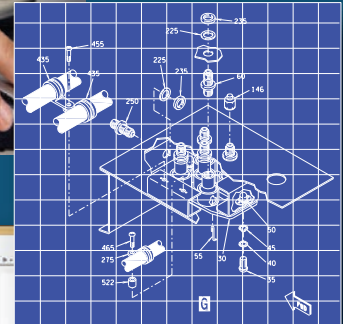

Why Triad?

Triad maintains a complete staff of technical publications personnel, highly skilled technical writers/engineers, technical illustrators, and program managers. As a result, Triad can draw heavily upon our own resources to handle every step of the documentation process.

Our competence is known throughout the industry - a credit to our team of experienced personnel. Our employees are our greatest asset. At Triad, your goals and satisfaction is paramount.
